1687.

To the Reader.

I Long ſince (gentle Reader) following the example of divers learned men, who had laboured much in this kind, Conſtrued, and being thereunto importuned by many, publiſhed Lilies *Rules of the Genders of Nouns, the preterperfect Tenſes and Supines of Verbs, his School-precepts, commonly called (Qui mihi) Thomas* Robinſon's Treatiſe of the Heteroclites, and the Latin Syntaxis, which I did, being upon long and ſufficient experience well aſſured, that a good part of the Maſters daily pains, and the Scholars fruitleſs diligence being hereby removed, the one may to the great content of his Parents and Maſter, even by himſelf with better courage and greater profit learn his leſſon in far ſhorter time, and keep it more faithfully in memory than he did before, and the other may chearfully with more comfort, and greater credit than was accuſtomed, teach more neceſſary things, as the declination of Nouns, conjugating of Verbs, and the meaning of the Rules, with a manifold uſe of the Examples, chuſing rather the practice than the Teaching of the Art. If by this means I any ways help or incourage thee, I ſhall be very glad: If not, yet I have the hire and glory I ſought for, namely, that I have endeavoured to ſtand thee in ſtead the beſt that I could. Farewel.

Thine in the Lord,

WILLIAM HAINE.
